School 'locks down' after suspicious case spotted

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A suspicious suitcase several hundred feet from Alyce Norman Elementary School led to a campus lockdown and a visit from the bomb squad last Wednesday. The suitcase turned out to be empty.

"At about 7:05 a.m., a school bus driver saw a white SUV leave the area at a quick pace," said Lieutenant Tod Sockman, one of the police to respond. "The bus driver looked over and saw a suitcase sitting there, propped up – it was placed there, not thrown from a vehicle."

The plastic suitcase was taped shut.

"It looked suspicious and it (occurred) right when kids were being dropped off."

The suitcase was sitting near the entrance to Elkhorn Park along Cummins Way, about 500 feet away from the school.

"We re-routed traffic," said Sockman. "The kids were allowed to go to the school, but they were on lockdown. The bomb squad X-rayed the suitcase, and it was empty. Had anything been inside, we would have had to use a disrupter," he said. A disrupter uses a powerful water jet to destroy suspicious packages.

It isn't clear if the suitcase was connected to the white SUV seen by the bus driver. Police haven't located the owner of the case.

"We had to evacuate three homes," he said. "The evacuated voluntarily. Every school in West Sacramento was personally notified by the school resource officers. They did a campus check, and nothing was found."

Up for air

Fletcher Wilson, 29, swims a 'butterfly' event on Wednesday at the pool in the Rec Center/high school complex in Southport. Earlier that day, Wilson posted a one minute, 7.5 second time in the 100-yard freestyle event organized by the Adult Swim Fitness Group at the West Sacramento Recreation Center. It was a 'personal best' event time for the accomplished athlete, who has earned medals in local triathlons, runs and open-water swims. For more information on the swim group and its 100-yard dash event, see page 3.

'Guilty' in brutal attack

A jury last week convicted 20-year old Antonio Mason Delgado of a number of charges after a beating on Jan. 21 that put a man in a two-month coma and left him with brain damage.

According to the Yolo County District Attorney's office, Delgado is an admitted Norteno gang member and committed the attack "to impress the Broderick Boys criminal street gang of West Sacramento."

The victim was targeted at random as he walked home on West Capitol Avenue, said the D.A.'s office. Delgado and another man beat him until a "good Samaritan" drove up, stopped his truck and chased off the two assailants, said the D.A.

"It was an incredibly brave act," said Deputy District Attorney Jim Walker, who believes the "good Samaritan" saved the victim's life.

Delgado was convicted of attempted murder, mayhem, robbery, assault, infliction of gross bodily injury, conspiracy and criminal street gang activity.

The other suspect was convicted of lesser charges.

Delgado will be sentenced on March 23 in the courtroom of Judge Stephen Mock.

Singing the prayer book and writing a check to help out

Rajeshwar Kumar, 57, is the treasurer of a group of local Hindus who try to help those in need. He is also the owner of a gardening business – and one of the yards he works on belongs to West Sacramento mayor Christopher Cabaldon.

After the country of Haiti was hit by a catastrophic earthquake on Jan. 12, the Hindu fellowship wanted to help. Kumar asked Cabaldon how to go about getting aid to Haiti. Kumar's group wanted to give $1,000 to earthquake victims.

"He told me and a couple of other people in town he was interested in making a donation and didn't know how to do it," Cabaldon recalled. "You can take a check to Raley's or Bank of America or other locations, but I told him he could come by (to a city council meeting) partly so he could get some recognition, but also to inspire other people.

Please see HAITI, p. 11

Clarification

Two weeks ago, the News-Ledger reported that River City High School principal Stuart MacKay was back on the campus part-time, after suffering a concussion breaking up a fight on Oct. 28.

After a conversation with a district official, the News-Ledger reported that MacKay was again serving as the campus's principal.

That statement needs to be clarified. MacKay continues to work on a modified schedule, based out of the district office. The campus has an "acting principal," vice principal Nick Richter.

School district approves $2.4 million package of budget cuts; more to come

The school board of the Washington Unified School District on Thursday unanimously approved a staff-recommended set of budget cuts designed to save $2.4 million amid a budget shortfall.

The package included elimination of the high school's librarian position (the librarian will be reassigned), cuts in paraeducator positions, and elimination support to send sixth graders to overnight science camp.

The district anticipates making even more cuts in the future, largely in reaction to funding cuts from a trouble state government.

Some of the topics that might be discussed, warned WUSD staff in a report last week, were a five-day reduction in the school year, cancellation of school bus service for the high school and reduction of school sports opportunities for middle school grades and/or high school freshmen.

School board president Dave Westin told the News-Ledger last week that he hopes to look for cuts within the district administration office.

Gas leak: evacuations

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Last Wednesday afternoon a West Sacramento home owner was mowing his front lawn on Longcroft Street when he accidentally struck the gas meter on the side of his house with his lawnmower, causing the gas line to his home to rupture and spew out nature gas. The loud hissing sound could be heard halfway down the block and the homeowner immediately went inside and called 911.

Within minutes, the West Sacramento Fire Department arrived and quickly secured the area. They asked nearby residents to evacuate their homes.

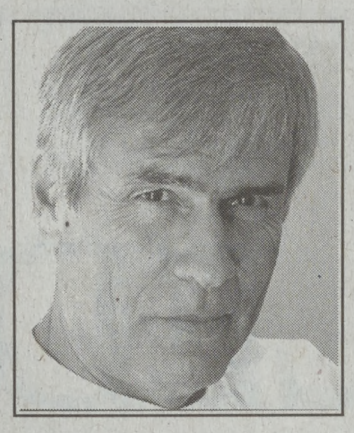
"This is not an uncommon event," explained WSFD Captain John Bodolay. "Many of the gas meters in this area are connected to the main gas line with pretty old pipes and it doesn't take much to break one of them. And although it's not an extremely dangerous situation where a whole city block could blow up, it's still serious enough that we want to make sure that any and all nearby ignition sources are turned off until PG&E can get out here and fix the problem. So in this case we've gone around the nearby neighborhood and made everyone aware of the problem and we're also redirecting traffic and instructing school children using Longcroft Street to take alternative routes. We're also lucky to have a pretty strong wind today which is helping disperse the gas into the air."

When PG&E crews arrived on the scene they were able to quickly stop the flow of natural gas out of the broken pipe, thus ending any real danger to the neighborhood, but it took them until almost 11 pm that night to fully complete the repairs, which required installing a new line all the way out to the gas main in the street.

"My wife had told me the lawn didn't really need mowing today," said longtime West Sacramento resident and former River City High School teacher William "Bill" Gillaspy, "and like always, I should have listened to her!"

How many people should be in the birthing room?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: I was talking to a friend the other day who was born and raised in the Midwest and the subject somehow came up of who should be allowed inside the birthing room when a baby is being born. She said only her daughter and her daughter's husband were in the birthing room when her grandchild was recently born, and seemed quite surprised when I said that they let everyone and their mother in out here, including the parents, both sets of grandparents, and even close friends. Anyway, the discussion reminded me of the following column I wrote many years ago, and I hope you will enjoy it seeing the light of day again:

A friend of mine (I'll call him Barry) and I were up on the Sacramento River the other day having a nice, leisurely lunch when all of a sudden he started going on and on about the recent natural birth of his first granddaughter. Being the wonderful friend and good listener I am, I wrinkled up my face and finally blurted out, "Geez, Barry, I'm trying to eat here!"

"But you should have seen it, Daryl," he continued anyway. "It was really something! And so spiritual, too."

"How come they let you in?" I asked, pushing away what was left of my plate of fettucine alfredo.

"My daughter insisted," he explained with pride. "In fact, we had most of the family right there in the birthing room."

"You're putting me on?"

"No I'm not. And my son-in-law was really something. He attended all these special classes where they taught him how to coach my daughter with her breathing and when they got through with him, he was an expert on everything from Fallopian tubes to the uterus. And my daughter just loved having him with her throughout the whole thing. And right after the baby came, she must have whispered to him that she loved him a half-dozen times."

"Really," I said, recalling a somewhat different response from my wife just a few minutes before the birth of our last child. In fact, if I remember correctly, I believe her final loving words to me as they hauled her into the delivery room were, "Don't you ever do this to me again!"

"I sure wish natural childbirth with fathers in the birthing room had been more popular when our wives were having babies," continued Barry. "Don't you feel like we've really missed something?"

I nodded my head 'yes', but silently thanked God for putting women in charge of giving birth, and men in charge of such things as changing the oil in the car and cleaning out the rabbit cage. In fact, I thought to myself, maybe my dad had it right when he once said (not exactly his words) that the closest a man should ever get to a birthing room is the bar across the street from the hospital.

Anyway, even though I never got around to witnessing the actual birth of any of my four children, I do have a number of recollections which are burned into what is left of my memory banks. For instance, there was the sadistic nurse in charge of cleaning up newborns who kept scrubbing my poor screaming daughter's bald head with a wire brush, making me wish I could to the same thing to the nurse and see how she liked it; and when, not too long before the birth of my first son, when my wife's contractions were only minutes apart and her fingernails were digging deep into my forearms, I distinctively remember thinking to myself that when husbands roll their pregnant wives into the hospital, they all ought to be issued those thick-padded, full-length leather gloves that wildlife experts use when they handle eagles or other large birds of prey; and right after my last son was born, I remember how my wife's obstetrician strolled over to me, handed me this little piece of paper and whispered, "Here, your wife would like you to have this."

"What is it?" I asked with interest.

"It's the name of a really good doctor who does vasectomies," he answered.

"So, Daryl," continued Barry, "you never once had the urge to go into the delivery room with your wife?"

Feeling a little guilty but not wanting to lie, I shook my head and said, "Well, not really."

"Why not?"

"Oh, I don't know," I tried to explain. "It's just that I always seem to say the wrong things at times like that, and although my wife has this really good sense of humor, it always seems to leave her once she is about eight or nine months pregnant. Plus there was this old Phil Donahue show that I could never quite get out of my mind."

"An old Phil Donahue show?" asked Barry with a puzzled expression.

"Yeah, and if I remember right, I think it was entitled, `Men who have witnessed their wives giving birth and don't want to ever have sex again'."

"In other words," said Barry, more discerning than I realized he was, "you were gutless?"

"Exactly."

"Well," said Barry, finishing the last bite of his meal, "if you're ever interested in seeing what you missed, feel free to drop by my place some evening. I've got the whole birth of my new granddaughter on tape, every single second of it, from the time little Brittany's pretty head first popped out, to this really great shot of the placenta."

Well, so much for ordering some dessert, I thought to myself,

When husbands roll their pregnant wives into the hospital, they ought to be issued those thick-padded, full-length leather gloves that wildlife experts use when they handle eagles or other large birds of prey.

The 21st Winter Olympics in Vancouver, Canada ended after 17 days of thrilling athletic achievements with the United States winning the most medals in the history of the games. The USA captured a total of 31 medals which included 9 Gold, 15 Silver and 13 bronze. Germany finished second with 31 total medals and the host Canada finished a strong third winning 26 medals.

The Canadian hockey team survived one of the greatest games in Olympic history to beat the Americans 3-2 in overtime and cap the host country's record gold rush with 14 gold medals in the Vancouver Games. The TV ratings were off the hook for the USA vs. Canada Men's Hockey gold-medal game making it the most watched hockey game in 30 years, drawing an average viewership of 27.6 million. It was estimated that more two-thirds of Canada's 29 million residents were tuned into the Gold Medal game.

Fitness swimming group works on its 100-yard dash

From the West Sacramento Adult Swim Fitness Group

Twenty five adult swimmers at the West Sacramento Recreation Center completed the Adult Swim Fitness Group's February Goal Swim, the 100 Yard Freestyle, on Wednesday, February 24.

Pacing the way was former UC-Davis swimmer Dale Garland, with the group's fastest time of 0:54.0. The fastest adult woman was Rose Berghash, a former Christian Brothers High School swimmer, who swam a 1:04.5. Not to be outdone, River City High School's Rebecca McNeil also swam a 1:00.3 at the end of her high school practice.

The Adult Swim Fitness Group is coached by Ross Yancher, who chooses a goal swim or local competition for his swimmers each month. Everyone at the Recreation Center Pool is encouraged to participate and train for the group's goal swims, and participants ranged in age from 8 years old to 75 years old. "Improving your sprint times is good for everyone," Yancher says. "Even our endurance swimmers and triathletes find that the faster they can sprint 100 yard, the faster the pace they seem to be able to hold on their longer events."

Upon completion of February's 100 yard sprint, the group began focus on their March goal, the 200 yard Individual Medley. Yancher says that plans for the spring change focus to open water swimming, as many triathletes and lake swimmers are members of the group. "One of our major events each year is June's Folsom Lake Open Water Swim. We took a nice contingent to the event last year and our West Sac swimmers lead the pack in all the races."

Racers for the 100 yard freestyle included: Dale Garland, :54.0, Bill Whipple, 1:00.0, Rebecca McNeil, 1:00.3, Billster Mistler, 1:01.0, Bobby Reed, 1:01.7, Ross Yancher, 1:02.5, Rose Berghash, 1:04.5, Fletcher Wilson, 1:07.5, Ryan Smith, 1:07.9, Don Fipps, 1:08.5, Jim Lockhart, 1:11.0, Scott Petty, 1:13, Ted Dang, 1:17.0, Elizabeth Kroll, 1:19.0, Jean Nelson, 1:23.4, Marjorie Kessler, 1:24.0, Bill Roehr, 1:26.5, Samantha Needham, 1:34.0, Tony Tipton, 1:44.0, Carlos Canales, 1:45.0, Debby He, 1:46.0, Ying Du, 2:13.0 and Gary Altringer, 2:25.0.

The Adult Fitness Swim Group at the Rec. Center hosts workouts at 6 am and 6 pm on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and Saturday morning at 8:30 am. New members of any swimming ability are welcome. The group will offer a free one week trial period during the first week of April for interested new swimmers.

Further information is available at www.westsacfun.org, by emailing swimwestsac@cal.net or by calling Yancher at (530) 756-8648.

Vancouver and Whistler and the government also spent $200 million for security bringing the total cost of the Games, including all the infrastructure improvements for the region that occurred was estimated to be $6 billion, with $600 million of the spending directly related to hosting the games.

OK, so how much money did Canada make in pulling off this huge four year in the making Olympic event? Projected benefits and revenues to the city and province were projected to be in the range of $10 billion, with a Price-Waterhouse report indicating that the projected direct revenues would be in the range of $1 billion!

Kings Korner

The Kings (19-39) are still adjusting to their roster infusion of new players winning two in row at the Arco Arena before they pack up the crew to head to Mid-West for a three game road trip. The Kings will head to Texas but make a quick stop at Oklahoma City on Tuesday before moving on to the lone star state to play in Houston on Wednesday (5:30 p.m.-CSNCA) . The Kings will get their first chance to face Kevin Martin and his new Rockets teammates and if that isn't enough the Kings will end their short road trip in Dallas (5:30 p.m.-CSNCA) on Friday.

Coach Westphal is still tinkering with his line-up trying to find the right chemistry with the addition of Carl Landry, Joey Dorsey and Dominic McGuire to the bench. Spencer Hawes is finally out of the dog house and playing well but Tyreke Evans continues to carry the Kings and impress his opponents. Evans is turning out to be the 2009 NBA's best draft pick and is making a strong push and remains the top candidate for the NBA's Rookie of the Year award.

The Kings will return to the friendly confines of the Arco Arena on Sunday, March 7th (6 p.m.) to host the Oklahoma City Thunder.

UFL Football

The United Football League San Francisco franchise will be playing their second season in the new Minor-League Football league at Sacramento State's Hornet Stadium. The Redwoods are in four team league with league champion Las Vegas Locomotives, Florida Tuskers (Orlando), and a team from the New York area that moved this year to Hartford, Conn.

UFL is in the process of launching two new expansion teams in current markets under that lack a major league football team like Austin (TX), San Antonio (TX), Salt Lake City (UT), and Omaha (NE).

The California Redwoods, who are coached by Dennis Green, have not decided if they will keep the Redwoods name or rename the new Sacramento Franchise. Other big named Head Coaches were in the first season included former prominent NFL coaches Jim Fassel, Jim Haslett and Ted Cottrell.

The UFL is designed to showcase former NFL and college athletes and their talent with the hopes of being picked up during the season in the NFL. Last year more than 30 of the UFL players moved on to NFL teams. For the 2010 season the league expects the quality of our players and the quality of league play to improve even further.

The UFL will play the majority of our games on Friday and Saturday evenings when the 2010 season with tickets prices starting at $20 and will kick off their season in September and conclude with the Championship Game during the week of Thanksgiving.

During the inaugural season every UFL game was shown on television (Versus) and streamed live on UFL-football.com. Stay tuned, because I've got a feeling the team will be doing some heavy marketing to win over the Sacramento fans and probably have a name the team contest.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

GUEST COMMENTARY:

How the planning process works

By Yolo County Supervisor Mike McGowan

(Editor's note: this column was submitted by Yolo County spokesperson Beth Gabor's office.)

California is a complicated place to build a home or establish a new business. The Planning/Building Division, within the Yolo County Planning & Public Works Department, assists people in successfully navigating through the maze of confusing regulations. The division includes three main functions: Building, Code Enforcement and Planning, all of which deal with various aspects of how land may be used.

Building staff issue 1,000 permits annually, for everything from patio covers to industrial facilities. All new structures larger than 120 square feet require a building permit, as do major changes to electrical, mechanical and plumbing systems. Plan reviews and inspections make sure all new buildings meet strict state requirements. Building staff also works with other agencies to ensure their requirements and fees are satisfied, including the county Health Department, county landfill, fire districts, school districts, and the Air Quality Management District.

Both planning and building staff provide Code Enforcement. When a complaint is received that a property owner has failed to get necessary permits, staff investigates the potential violation and takes appropriate action. The owner is notified and given an opportunity to correct the situation. If nothing is done to fix the problem, the county may issue a citation, placing fines on the property and withholding future permit approvals until the owner comes into compliance.

Planning staff oversee what types of land uses are allowed for over 620,000 acres within the unincorporated area. They rely on the General Plan, which sets out a vision of what Yolo County will look like in the future, and require that all decisions be consistent with that vision. Last November, the Board of Supervisors adopted the county's General Plan for the year 2030 – only the third General Plan adopted in county history.

The General Plan also provides the basis for zoning, which sets detailed development standards for different uses, such as agriculture, commercial, residential, industrial and open space. Staff reviews each planning and building proposal to make sure it complies with both the General Plan and the Zoning Code. Simple permits can be issued with relatively little review. Other proposals require a longer process. Examples include dividing land into smaller parcels, use permits for activities that may conflict with adjoining properties, or changes to the Zoning Code or General Plan.

The longer review process also requires extensive public outreach. Other agencies are notified to see if they have any requirements. Notices are sent to surrounding property owners to identify their concerns. The item is scheduled for a local advisory committee meeting to determine the interests of the community. In addition, the project is evaluated for its potential environmental and fiscal impacts. Recommendations are made by staff and noticed in the local newspaper, as part of public hearings before the Zoning Administrator, Planning Commission and/or the Board of Supervisors.

"We provide the opportunity for a public discussion on how best to protect community values while allowing for the changes needed to improve the quality of life in the future," explains David Morrison, Assistant Director.

GUEST OPINION:

Census: why you should fill out that form

From Mark Johannessen
City Councilmember
Chair, Complete Count Committee

MARK JOHANNESSEN

Every 10 years, a census occurs in the U.S. which is mandated by our Constitution. At the beginning of next month, the U.S. Census will begin mailing a short 10-question questionnaire, which should take about 10 minutes to complete, to 135 million households nationally.

Each census question helps to determine how more than $400 billion will be allocated to state and local governments across the country; for schools, job training centers, senior centers, public works projects and emergency services. For our city and region, this means is that for each person counted, we have the ability to capture $1,700 per year, for 10 years, of federal funding. The Census also is used to determine the number of U.S. House of Representative seats our state will have.

By law, census responses are safe and cannot be shared with anyone, including the Internal Revenue Service, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Central Intelligence Agency or any other government agency. Not even the President of the United States.

West Sacramento has a U.S. Census Complete Count Committee whose purpose is to inform all West Sacramento residents of the upcoming census count, and to help insure we have as complete a count as possible, particularly in the hard to count population of West Sacramento (homeless, 18-24 year olds, recent immigrants and low income folks). The committee will hold a number of events at the end of this month to provide census information and help complete the questionnaires.

> Each census question helps to determine how more than $400 billion will be allocated to state and local governments across the country; for schools, job training centers, senior centers, public works projects and emergency services.

This is a very important issue for all residents of West Sacramento. Please tell your family, neighbors and friends about the census and the need to mail those forms back when they are received. If the forms are not mailed back, then census workers will go door-to-door and ask the same 10 questions.

Letters to the Editor

Great crab feed!

We would like to acknowledge the River City High School Athletic Boosters Club Crab Feed Committee, student workers, WUSD staff Danny Velez and Svelana Streltsov, and all other volunteers who worked on the crab feed at RCHS on February 20th. Wow, what an incredible event! You managed to pull off a spectacular crab feed, raising money for the student athletes at RCHS. You are all such impressive people and an inspiration to the youth in our community. You've proven if you work hard and work together, a lot can be accomplished.

Everyone we talked to who attended the event was talking about how much fun they had and are already looking forward to the next fundraising event you host. The Midnight Players were a great addition to the evening and a highlighted moment by Amar Khalil (Tony, Roni, Tone) made the night unforgettable.

Many of the tables were having discussions of how helpful the student workers were and joking about their table having the best service. It was a job well-done to all who worked the event. Thank you again for your commitment to the student athletes of RCHS.

Pools to gardens

Having watched with no small distress, the over large, over luxurious, and over budget RCHS being built, we have some suggestion for how to adapt the campus to reflect the real needs of this economic circumstance. We are certainly stuck with a white elephant, largely a paean to ego and short sightedness, but there is hope. Much of the playing fields area could be put to use teaching our youth self sufficiency through small agriculture. They would gain practical skills, learn the joy and respect of working with their hands, and become useful in real life as compared to learning how to play games which nobody will pay them for as adults. They could thereby generate revenue saving products to be used at the cafeteria, and perhaps sold at local Farmer's Markets.

The pools might easily convert to hydroponic and/or greenhouse application, taking the system from swimming in debt to some measure of productivity. The cafeteria could become a culinary trade school. Maintaining the physical plant could be a place to train future plant engineers in the more rudimentary skills, thus preparing them for jobs which will exist and cannot be exported like computer work. Students could "apprentice" in the revamping of the physical plant, preparing them for the trades, and teaching them skills for maintaining their own homes in the future.

We have lived through and passed beyond a time in our nation when self gratification, and play is a viably important pass time. We have raised not one, but two generations whose ability to cope with real practical skill and productivity is seriously impaired. Skill with a computer, or a degree in business or "media" butters no turnips. If we are to now revamp our educational system, let us return to some sense of practicality.

While this letter is to some degree tongue in cheek there are perhaps some ideas in it which should be considered.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Precious: Based on the Novel 'Push' by Sapphire" (Rated R) — Gabourey Sidibe stars as Precious Jones, a 16-year-old, morbidly obese, illiterate, poverty-stricken girl who is pregnant for the second time after being raped by her father. Her first child (also a product of incestuous rape) was born with Down Syndrome. Precious' mother (played by Mo'Nique) physically and verbally abuses the teen, who has no friends, but retreats into a rich fantasy life, where she dreams of becoming a pop star. With the help of a teacher and others, there seems to be a glimmer of hope for the girl, but before things improve, Precious' situation will first need to get much darker.

"The Who: The Kids Are Alright" (Unrated) — This is one of the greatest rock-n-roll documentaries ever made. Highlighting the band's tumultuous career from its rocky early '60s Mod roots to the death of drummer Keith Moon in 1978, this new Blu-Ray release has been beautifully remastered — especially the sound of early TV performances where tape speeds were out of phase. This release includes more than 100 hours of extra footage, a documentary on the remastering of film and an interview with lead singer Roger Daltrey.

"Civilisation: Complete Series" (Unrated) — Two years in the making. More than 100 locations in 13 countries. A landmark television documentary event. First broadcast in 1969, Lord Kenneth Clark's "Civilisation, A Personal View" still ranks as one of the greatest series about Western culture ever produced. Using art, music, literature and architecture to illustrate the march of Western civilization, Lord Clark asks important questions such as: What is the difference between Art and Culture — and are they worth saving? If you are a fan of James Burke's "Connections" and "The Day The Universe Changed" series, then this is one collection you need to add to your video library.

Gabourey Sidibe

"Tenspeed & Brown Shoe" (Unrated) — Jeff Goldblum and Ben Vereen's short-lived 1980 detective comedy series finally gets a DVD release. Goldblum plays Lionel "Brown Shoe" Whitney, a stockbroker who fantasizes about becoming a hard-boiled detective. Vereen is E.L. "Tenspeed" Turner, a grifter who plays on Brown Shoe's delusions in the hopes of making a big score. Hilarity ensues.

Q. What's Kirstie Alley been up to lately? I've always been a fan of hers, but haven't seen her in a while. — Kathy D. in Maryland

A. Aside from her occasional Twitter battles with Joy Behar, Kirstie has been keeping a pretty low profile as of late. However, all of that will change when her new A&E reality series, "Big Life," premieres on Sunday, March 21. "Big Life" follows Kirstie as she tries to shed the 75 pounds she has put on (and lost, and put back on) in recent years, as well as raise her two teenage children, produce a feature film and care for eight ringtail lemurs (yes, I said lemurs).

Q. I heard that Kate Winslet is going to star in a television show. Is that true? I can't imagine her leaving the big screen behind to be a TV star! — Delilah M., via e-mail

A. Oscar-winning British actress Kate Winslet is indeed coming to a television set near you, but the move is definitely not permanent. Kate has signed on to star in the HBO miniseries "Mildred Pierce," which begins shooting in April. But she is not leaving the big screen behind. She has one as-yet-untitled movie in the can (co-starring the likes of Gerard Butler, Naomi Watts, Hugh Jackman and Emma Stone) and another feature film in the works called "Contagion," which stars Matt Damon, Jude Law and Marion Cotillard.

Q. I am a big fan of "The Twilight Saga," and I really need to know if "Breaking Dawn" is going to be one movie or split into two. I don't see how all that's in the book could ever fit into one movie. — Livy T., West Palm Beach, Fla.

A. It would be next to impossible to make "Breaking Dawn" as a single movie without losing a LOT in the translation. Author Stephenie Meyer is of the same belief, and she pretty much has the final say when it comes to the movies. Many sources within Summit Entertainment are confirming (although not officially yet) that "Breaking Dawn" will follow in the footsteps of the Harry Potter series and be broken up into two movies. This should make everyone happy: Fans of the book series won't feel as if the conclusion is being rushed; fans of the movie series will get to see more Rob Pattinson; and the folks behind the scenes will get more cash in their pockets.

Q. I was shocked by the sudden death of actress Brittany Murphy. Before she passed, was she working on or had she completed any movies that we fans will get to see her in, one last time? — Heather G., via e-mail

A. Before her death in December, Brittany, 32, had completed work on a movie called "Abandon," which co-stars Dean Cain and Mimi Rogers. Anchor Bay Entertainment plans to release the thriller this summer.

Shocking True Story: The Rise and Fall of Confidential, America's Most Scandalous Scandal Magazine
by Henry E. Scott
(Pantheon, $26)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

The first issue of Confidential Magazine rolled off the presses in December 1952. The bimonthly was the brainchild of Robert Harrison, who got the idea to publish a national scandal magazine while watching Sen. Estes Kefauver's televised hearings on organized crime. The new magazine promised confidential and off-the-record news involving Hollywood's biggest stars and the country's top political leaders.

With its lurid red and yellow covers and screaming headlines, it attracted immediate attention. Tom Wolfe called Confidential "the most scandalous scandal magazine in the history of the world," while Time Magazine sniffed that it was "a cheesecake of innuendo, detraction and plain smut." Its writers would dig up one sensational "fact" and then embroider it for another 1,500 to 2,000 words. If the person written about was tempted to sue, he would quickly discover that the one fact might be true but the embroidery was not actionable under American libel laws.

The magazine was printed on pulp paper and was considered so infamous, copies were often kept under the counter and sold only to adults who requested it. Its main draw was that it printed stories the fan magazines and more mainstream publications would not touch. For example, it claimed Bing Crosby was a wife beater, Rita Hayworth was a neglectful mother, Rock Hudson had boyfriends and Joan Crawford was involved in a backstreet romance with a hunky bartender.

Henry Scott has written a fascinating book about the magazine, its founders and the impact Confidential had on American society. Some of the more outrageous pieces are included word-for-word along with photos, just as they originally appeared in the magazine. His book helps explain why more than a half-century later, we continue to be obsessed with the scandals and foibles of the rich and famous.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 11, 1818, "Frankenstein, or, The Modern Prometheus" is published. The book, by 21-year-old Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley, is frequently called the world's first science-fiction novel. In Shelley's tale, a scientist animates a creature constructed from dismembered corpses.

• On March 10, 1876, the first discernible speech is transmitted over a telephone system when inventor Alexander Graham Bell summons his assistant in another room by saying, "Mr. Watson, come here; I want you." Bell had received a telephone patent three days before, just hours ahead of another inventor, Elisha Gray.

• On March 12, 1903, the New York Highlanders are given the go-ahead by team owners to join baseball's American League. The Highlanders had recently moved from Baltimore, where they were called the Orioles. The team officially changed its name to the New York Yankees in 1913.

• On March 14, 1935, 6-year-old actress Shirley Temple presses her hands in cement outside Grauman's Chinese Theater in Los Angeles. She first won attention with a song and dance in the 1934 movie "Get Up and Cheer."

• On March 13, 1942, the Quartermaster Corps of the U.S. Army begins training dogs for the newly established War Dog Program, or "K-9 Corps." The top canine hero of World War II was Chips, who attacked an enemy machine gun nest in Italy, forcing the entire crew to surrender. The wounded Chips was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star and the Purple Heart — all of which were later revoked due to an Army policy preventing official commendation of animals.

• On March 9, 1959, the first Barbie doll goes on display at the American Toy Fair in New York City. Barbie was the first mass-produced toy doll in the United States with adult features. Barbie's appearance was modeled on a doll named Lilli, based on a German comic-strip character.

• On March 8, 1969, the Pontiac Firebird Trans Am is introduced. The Trans Am was one in a series of muscle cars released by Pontiac in the 1960s, including the Grand Prix and the GTO designed by a young John DeLorean.

Celebrate at Any Meal With Fiesta Tacos

I love discovering healthy ingredients and adding them to my favorite recipes. Lately, I've been experimenting with quinoa. Quinoa is resembles a grain but is actually a complete protein. It contains all nine essential amino acids, making it a perfect protein source for vegans. Quinoa looks like small, grayish pearls, has a nutty flavor and a light, creamy texture. I love combining it with rice or couscous.

Quinoa is often referred to as a "grain," but it's actually a relative of leafy green vegetables like spinach and Swiss chard. It has a long and ancient history, and is native to South America. Quinoa is called the "the gold of the Incas," who recognized its protein-packed potential as a source of energy for their warriors.

Lysine is an amino acid found in quinoa that helps promote tissue growth and repair, and might be one reason that warriors in battle valued eating quinoa. It's also a good source of magnesium, iron, copper and phosphorus. Eating quinoa has been found to be beneficial to those who suffer with migraine headaches. Magnesium helps to relax blood vessels — which prevents the pain, constriction and rebound dilation characteristic of migraines — and also reduces the frequency of headache episodes.

To prepare quinoa, place it in a fine mesh strainer, coffee filter or a piece of cheesecloth. Soak it for several hours, changing the soaking water or running it under cold water to remove the saponins. Saponins are a coating on quinoa that have a laxative effect. Some brands of quinoa come pre-rinsed for convenience.

Cooking quinoa is similar to preparing rice. Use two cups of liquid (water or broth) to one cup of quinoa, bring it to a boil, then cover and simmer for 14 to 18 minutes. The quinoa germ will curl and separate from the seed when it is fully cooked.

Cooked quinoa can be served for breakfast mixed with berries, yogurt, honey or almonds. It also can be purchased as a dry, flaked product that can be eaten like a breakfast cereal. This recipe for Fiesta Tacos is perfect for breakfast, or can be served as lunch, or for dinner with a salad or steamed green vegetables. The quinoa and the brown rice can be made ahead of time and refrigerated. Try these delicious tacos as a "meal-on-the-go" for busy days.

FIESTA TACOS

- 1 cup cooked quinoa
- 1 cup cooked brown rice
- 1 cup black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 tablespoon canola oil
- 1 medium-sized yellow onion, chopped
- 4 garlic cloves, peeled and minced
- 1/2 cup water or low-sodium chicken, beef or vegetable broth
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 (16 ounce) jar of mild, chunky salsa
- 1/2 cup shredded low-fat Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup frozen corn or no-salt added canned corn, optional
- 1/4 cup sliced green or black olives, optional
- 10 whole-wheat tortillas

1. In a large skillet, heat oil over medium heat. Sauté onions until translucent. Add garlic to onion and cook until garlic is turning golden. Add the quinoa, brown rice, black beans and water or broth. Season mixture with the salt, pepper, chili powder and the cumin. Add salsa. Turn the heat to high and cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to boil. Add the corn, if desired. Cover and reduce heat to low; simmer, stirring occasionally, for 5 minutes.

2. Wrap tortillas in food-safe paper towels. Sprinkle paper towels with water on both sides. Heat the tortillas in the microwave for 30 seconds, or until warm and pliable.

3. Place 2 to 3 heaping tablespoons of filling in the center of each tortilla.

Add optional filling ingredients, if desired. Fold the tortilla in half and serve immediately. You can also prepare the tortillas in advance, wrap them in individual pieces of microwave-safe plastic wrap and refrigerate or freeze them for re-heating in the microwave. Makes 10 tacos, 2 tacos per serving.

The purpose of the zoning overlay is to reduce exposure of people and property to flood risks by promoting the proper integration of development in the vicinity of flood protection structures. The overlay would accomplish this by implementing additional development regulations, beyond existing development regulations, on properties in the vicinity of flood protection structures. Staff will present the proposed overlay and seek Planning Commission and public comment.

Members of this community can get some inspiration from what this quiet, hardworking person has done."

So Kumar presented a check for $1,000 to the city council last month. The city thanked him publicly.

"It was from our society," Kumar, told the News-Ledger. "There are about 20 houses in West Sacramento, with a few in Sacramento. Every week, we sing the prayer book and collect money and put it in the bank. If something happens, we sing our prayer book and try to help."

A group of households has formed a society called "Shree Sanatan Dharm Sat Song Ravnayan Mandali." They have a bank account they keep topped up for charity.

Kumar, 57, explained that most of the area's Hindus are fairly recent immigrants from the Fiji Islands. Their ancestors used to live in India.

"The British took them to the Fiji Islands in the 1700s, from India," said Kumar. "The British took them to work in the sugar cane fields there."

Many in Kumar's generation have since sought a future in the U.S. Their story is parallel to that of many local Sikhs, he added, who also have roots in the Fiji Islands and India.

The $1,000 contribution is already working.

"We simply directed it to the Red Cross at his request," said Mayor Cabaldon. "The American Red Cross has an account for Haiti relief."

County: flu threat not over; H1N1 shots still offered

From the County of Yolo

The flu season has slowed down, but it is still here. Seasonal flu typically peaks in February and March and influenza activity can occur as late as May. So it is still possible to get sick from either seasonal flu or Novel H1N1 this season.

"If you haven't received the Novel H1N1 vaccine yet, now is a good time to get it," states Dr. Joseph Iser, Yolo County Health Officer and Director, in a county press release. "The virus is likely to continue to be with us, and getting vaccinated will prevent the disease from spreading."

The Yolo County Health Department will continue to provide Novel H1N1 vaccine at their Woodland site. The West Sacramento site will close the end of February. Vaccine will be given in Woodland on Mondays and Wednesday from 2:00 – 5:00 p.m. at:

Yolo County Health Department, 137 N. Cottonwood St. Ste 1200, Woodland, CA 95695, (530) 666-8645.

In addition to Novel H1N1 vaccine, there will be childhood and other limited adult vaccines available during clinic hours. Childhood and adult vaccines are $10 for the first vaccine and $3 for each additional vaccine at time of service. Insurance billing is not available. Only cash or checks are accepted. No child will be refused an immunization based on inability to pay the administration fee.

To fully assess immunizations needed, please bring the individual's immunization card, if available, for accurate and complete immunization recommendations. The Yolo County Health Department participates in the California Immunization Registry, which allows immunization records to be accessed at participating doctors' offices and clinics. Opting out of inclusion in the Registry can be shared when checking in at the vaccine clinic.

For more information about Novel H1N1 influenza and future vaccination clinics as they become scheduled, go to www.yolohealth.org (select: Novel H1N1 Influenza) or call (530) 666-8645.
